We have received the Railway number of the Leithbridge News. The Dominion Illustrated for October 14th contains engravings of views of Beloit Lake, Quebec; sketches at Montreal-Britania football match, and Hamilton-Toronto football match; engravings of the Statue of Liberty; military ball on Niagara frontier; fire at Pilow, Hersey & Co's works and portrait of James Hannay, Esq.

The Chicago Graphic of October 25th contains portraits of the late Chief Justice Miller and several prominent politicians, and engravings of German ironclad and gunboats; Burning of the Leisner House, Syracuse, N. York; the United States steamer Yorktown; a rainy evening in the city after the painting by Stahl; an anarchist meeting in Paris, etc.

Calgary Herald, October 26th: In the window of H. A. Jones' grocery may be seen as fine a display of roots, from Edmonton, as ever was seen in Calgary. In potatoes, grown by Matt Brown, are the Shonand monument and Early Rose varieties, and while really good, can be equalled hereabouts, but the turnips, beets and parsnips, grown by J. H. Brenton, are really remarkable. A white turnip weighs 36 lbs., a second of the same variety 28 lbs., and a Swede 30 lbs. There is a white Russian winter radish, several beets and a couple of heads of cabbage that can not be surpassed. The whole speaks volumes for the Edmonton district.

H. S. Young of the H. B. Co. returned from Lac la Poudre on Friday and reports the crops there and at Victoria as being very good. The fishery at Lac la Biche and Beaver Lake has been a failure this year, not one quarter of the usual catch being taken. The Whitefish Lake fishery was only starting and it is not known how it has turned out. Peter Simpson was fishing at Goodwin Lake, which has not been fished for some years, and was getting a number of fish of very large size, one he caught weighed seventeen and a quarter pounds. The Lac la Biche people will be very hard up this winter as they place their principal dependence on the fishery. Chickens and partridges were in great numbers along the road. Mr. Young's fishing stockade is empty. Rabbits are beginning to appear again.

Calgary Tribune, October 26th: Edmonton, in the persons of Messrs. J. R. Brenton, R. Kelly and M. Groat, has sent into Calgary as fine specimens of roots as have ever been seen in the country. Those splendid samples are on view in Mr. R. A. Jones' window, and have attracted considerable attention, having been inspected amongst others by the two English delegates who are in town. Mr. Groat is an intimate friend of one of the delegates, Mr. Brown. The specimens of potatoes, parsnips and carrots are wonderfully fine, but the root that strikes the eye with the greatest force, metaphorically speaking, of course, is a purple top turnip, weighing 36 pounds; next comes a white turnip, 28 pounds, and a Swede, 30 pounds, while we also find a mammoth winter radish, weighing 8 pounds. Edmonton should be proud of a district which can grow such roots as these.

W. Clarke of Bottineau, North Dakota, whose arrival we noticed last week has been looking round for a location and has found one to suit him and he has telegraphed for his family and his brother, who also intends locating here, to come in here. Mr. Clarke states that he is more than pleased with this district which he declares to be superior to anything he has seen west of Brandon. He states that the roots grown here surpass any thing that he has previously met with. Judging from the roots shown him he is satisfied with the grain producing qualities of the district, which has also impressed him favorably as a stock raising country. He has seen stacks of grain taken off thirty acres of land that exceeded in bulk what he has taken of two hundred acres in Dakota. Until Mr. McElroy who located here this summer, returned to Dakota the people in the Bottineau district had not heard much of Edmonton, but he circulated such favorable reports that the attention of a great many has been directed to this point and a number are willing to hear Mr. Clarke's opinion of the country, before locating elsewhere, and he thinks a number will come on here in the spring.

A. Macdonald & Co have moved into the building formerly occupied by Smith & Peacock.

A large shipment of flour arrived last week for Indian agency Stony Plain. Freight one cent per pound.

The Presbyterians and Methodists held a union Thanksgiving service in the Presbyterian church on Thursday.

UNION SCHOOLS.

The desire for the advancement of education cannot be otherwise than indicative not only of the true loyalty, but the deep affection of the legislative assembly of the Territories towards the various constituents of each electoral district. It is patent to all that they had the present interest and future welfare of the Territories in their mind's eye, by a careful reading and study of the school ordinances. They have made provision for the formation not only of public but also of high schools or as they are termed by the ordinance "Union Schools." When, by a careful and skilful diagnosis of the average attendance and success of the scholars of a public school, it is shown that the condition and requirements call for and demand a union school, when the time has come that such would be expedient and advantageous, then it is the duty of the press and the people to agitate and secure such for the privilege and benefit of all concerned. Such a diagnosis has been made. We are upon the eve of such a time. The school ordinance reads thus, vide section 177 of the Revised ordinances of N.W.T. "To schools in which the daily average attendance is not less than sixty pupils, when not less than three teachers are employed, and when not less than fifteen children of resident ratepayers have passed the examination prescribed by the board of education for entrance to the high school branch of such schools, a grant of $550 in addition to the grant to which the school is otherwise entitled, may be made annually to such school for a high school teacher, provided the certificates held by such teacher are approved by the board of education." The first clause of section 177 is and has been fulfilled. We have an average attendance of over sixty children of resident ratepayers. The second clause calls for the employment of not less than three teachers. Although we have only two teachers at present, it is only a matter of a short time until it will be necessary and expedient to procure such other teacher. The third clause provides that not less than fifteen pupils shall have passed the examination prescribed by the board of education for entrance to the high school branch of such school. This requirement has also been complied with as there are twenty pupils who have already passed such examination. Thus the reader can see and understand the case. The opportunity has come and must be as bad as abuse. Now in these "union schools" all the higher branches to university life are taught and here is laid the broad foundation of a liberal education. These higher branches cannot be taught under the present system and economy. It may be contended that it would be a further and useless attempt to endeavor to obtain the services of a suitable and efficient teacher, who at the same time is a graduate in arts. But the writer is certain that many a teacher of the desired and requisite qualifications could be secured. The writer is cognizant of the fact that a professor of mathematics of an eastern university has written and offered his services as the matter of the establishment and equipment of a system of higher education. It may also be contended that very few would take advantage of the opportunity thus afforded to study these higher branches. But this is no reason why opportunities should not be afforded to all and any who may desire and require such. In case any young man wished to matriculate in divinity, law, arts, or medicine, such would be impossible without the training and instruction of said union schools. Again it may be contended that the time has not yet come in a young community such as ours is at present for the establishment and development of such a school. But then it must be born in mind that all things must have a beginning, and well begun is half done. There is no reason why the young men of this district should be debarred from the advantages and facilities of a more advanced and liberal education than that accorded by the public school. The Right Reverend The Bishop of Saskatchewan in an address which he delivered, upon visitation of our school said: "The time has come for a union school and inasmuch as all the conditions and requirements have been fulfilled, you ought to have one in the interest of children and homes." The time has come, shall the Rubicon be crossed. Ought it to be; is there an eternal oughtness as well as fitness in this matter? We think so. The children of resident ratepayers need such. The successful candidates need such. Shall these be denied the rights and privileges which accrue to them, through our indifference and ignorance? We say most assuredly not. It has been said that every man is his own ancestor and heir, inasmuch as he devises his future and inherits his past. Therefore let the future be so devised that in the years to come there may not be regretful inheritors of a mis-spent past. Let the ratepayers see to it that the environments of children be such that it will be conducive to their mental development and progress.

The French political journals are bringing their utmost pressure to bear upon the government in an endeavor to induce the adoption of retaliatory measures against the United States for the restrictive operation of the McKinlay bill upon French products. The Figaro, the most bitter of these journals, demands that the government retaliate upon American insurance companies, of which there are many doing an enormous business in France, by a rigid enforcement of existing laws against foreign companies, and if these are not found adequate, by the enactment of new ones. The London Standard in a long leader on the subject, declares that the French tariff and McKinlay bill have plunged the civilised world into an inevitable war, and predicts that the cure continued will retaliate sooner or later in a way that will convince the high protectionists of the fatal gravity of their error.

The British minister at Belgrade has sent in a voluminous book, illustrating the possible advantage to be derived from an extension of British trade with Servia. He declares that Servia can supply pretty nearly everything in the line of food products now obtained from the United States, and that it would be a good way to retaliate for the McKinlay tariff to obtain such commodities from the Servians instead of the Americans. The newspapers have taken up the matter and are urging the English merchants to adopt the suggestion.

According to a Washington dispatch, United States farmers who had expected a raising price in their products in consequence of the McKinlay bill which was in a great measure formed in their interests, are beginning to be disappointed, and are asking why quotations show there have been no advance in the prices of corn, pork, flour, sugar or cornmeal, and there has been decrease of 10 cents a bushel in the price of potatoes since the bill passed with a slight increase in butter.

The State department officers say the published statement that the Behring Sea question has been submitted to arbitration is untrue, as the arbitrators have not yet been selected. Correspondence is still passing between the United States and Great Britain on the subject, and a conclusion is not yet in sight.

A London cable despatch to the Globe says: "Samples of Canadian maiting barley are on exhibition. They are highly praised though there is some need of improvement before they can be used on British markets." Harry M. Stanley writes to the Times appealing for public subscriptions to make up the remaining $13,500 of the $25,000 required to build a mission steamer for Lake Nyansa. He contrasts English apathy with German activity in the same direction.

Fort Benton, Montana, River Front: The coal and iron in use here is giving good satisfaction. The demand in Montana for this coal has increased so that the two train loads which are sent from Lethbridge daily do not supply it. Arrangements will be made soon to ship four train loads a day.

Robert Kerr, freight and passenger agent of the Canadian Pacific, estimates that his company will move about 12,000,000 bushels of wheat from their territory west of Winnipeg.
